

Do you know when charities, foundations, grant making trusts and even local authorities have issued invitations to bid for grants as soon as they are published?

The "TfC Bid Opportunities Service" launched in August 2016 is available to a limited number of selected charities BY INVITATION ONLY.

We are delighted to invite you to benefit from this unique service which is designed to put your charity ahead of your competition for grants and funding.

By signing up to the TfC Bid Opportunities Service you will receive:

- Notices of invitations to bid published each week sent to your nominated email box. This unique service is based on ten years of experience in providing information about tendering opportunities. By receiving the bid opportunities notices as soon as they are published, you gain valuable time to prepare a winning bid;
- A set of links to government notices and news in the weekly eJournal and upDATE. These are links to the actual publication without "interpretation" by media or other bodies so that you can be in touch with what the government is actually saying as well as getting access to statistics and opportunities to participate in consultations;
- The six-weekly publication "Procurement Trends" Newsletter provides an analysis of the key developments in bidding, tendering and procurement. Until the UK leaves the EU procurement continues to take place under the existing EU Directive and regulations. However, trends are developing as purchasers interpret the 2015 rules and government policy changes. Understanding these trends can help you to identify new opportunities and become more competitive.

This service is available to charitable organisations by invitation only. It is not generally available through our website and is not available to private companies or individuals. It is designed to help those charities who wish to benefit from advance knowledge of bidding opportunities and to develop the technical knowledge and skills to bid successfully. An annual subscription of £100 + VAT (£120), that is for just over £2 per week, will enable your charity to know about bidding opportunities when they are announced and give you immediate access to the relevant documentation and valuable time to develop a winning response.
